Alleged Blackhand Member Arrested Here Yesterday

Tony Longo, proprietor of the pool room on Donner avenue, between Third and Fourth street, who was arrested by Chief of Police Wheatley yesterday on information received from Pittsburgh headquarters, was taken back to the city to answer charges of highway robbery. He is said to be the last member of an alleged "blackhand" gang which for years terrorized Italians in Pittsburgh's "Little Italy." His arrest came about through the unusual procedure of a man awaiting trial on a charge of murder swearing out a warrant against him. The warrant also named two dead men as implicated in the holdup.

The arrest of Longo followed a confession which the city detectives say was made by Frank Buzumato, who was arrested in Butte, Mont., several months ago charged with the murder of Nichola Dagastino at Clay way and Chatham street. Following the shooting, the police say Buzumato was secreted by friends in Little Italy until an opportunity was presented for escape.

Tony Longo also disappeared the night Dagnastino was murdered. A few months after the killing of Dagastino, another member of the gang, known to the police as James Albruzzes, was murdered near Greensburg.

When Buzumato was returned to Pittsburgh, police say he maintained he shot Dagastino in self defense. He declares two men attacked him and robbed him of $85 and his gold watch. He said, according to the police, that he got the "drop" on Dagastino, and killed him in a quarrel. Through his attorneys and the detectives, Buzumato gave the whole story to the district attorney, it is said. Then followed the unusual proceeding of an order being issued taking Buzumato into court where informations were made against Longo and the two dead men. The warrants were issued promptly and Detectives Gabriel Di Forge and Edward Dunn came here and arrested Longo. He was taken to Central police station last night.

Meeting Voters

John E. Shields, who stormed the castle for the Republican nomination for sheriff, is in town today. Mr. Shields is about the streets meeting the business men, professional men and laborers and he wants to know every man in the town before he leaves. He appreciates the big vote he received here both in his campaign for commissioner and for sheriff the last time, and he is anxious to personally show his appreciation.

John E. Shields

Mr. Shields has covered the county pretty thoroughly since the nomination, and he feels that the Republican ticket will win by an old time majority. The insurgent element is all back in the party and it is the opinion that the straight ticket will be elected and that Westmoreland county will be back in the Republican column strong.

A Busy Valley

The actual need of additional men in the mines of the Monongahela valley is generally reported. With the resumption of the Coal Bluff mine, a short distance north of Monongahela Wednesday, the need has become all the more pronounced. There is a boom of no small proportions now under way, due to the re-election of Senator Penrose last fall and prospects of a Republican victory next month.

Both up and down the river the report is the same. Practically every coal mine is in operation. The Coal Bluff mine, which is owned by the Pittsburgh Coal company resumed operations with 250 men and the capacity will be increased as miners are available until 300 or more are employed. The Coal Bluff mine thus is ending a suspension lasting a year, the shutdown being due to poor business.

Conditions at the mills are similar to those of the mines. Glass factories locally are operating steadily, as well as the shovel plant. Construction is being carried on at the same time and new buildings being added. The building line is holding its own. In the steel trade at the huge mills of the valley, the best business in years is reported. At Monessen and Donora, where immense plants are located, there has been a steady growth of business. The work of building the large zinc plant of the United States Steel corporation at Donora is progressing rapidly. About 2,000 men have come to Donora and every one of them given work. The first fires at the new zinc plant were started within the last day or two, but this does not mean immediate manufacture. Probably the plant will not be in shape for operation for several weeks.

At the Pittsburgh Steel Products company's plant, many additions are being made and a force of workmen are busily engaged putting up new buildings that will cost approximately $250,000. Structural iron workers are also employed at the Page plant making additions and improvements and everything points to a most prosperous future for the this vicinity.

Special Shipment

Joseph Safier of Safier & Co., has just returned from Cleveland where he purchased a consignment of Wooltex and other garments which were shipped by fast American and Adams express. They consist of coats, suits and skirts of the Wooltex and other famous makes and are expected to reach here today and will be placed on immediate display at the Safier store. The prices will be exceedingly low, considering the character of the goods.—Jas. Safier & Co .1t fp

Valuations Being Shot Up In Second Ward

People of the Second ward of the borough of Monessen are being confronted with higher assessments. The tax booster is on the job and valuations are being raised. This is the tri-ennial assessment period and the assessors of the town are supposed to make an assesment effecting all properties. The taxes in the borough of Monessen are naturally high on account of the vast improvements we have been forced to make in so short a time.

At present, state, county, school and borough taxes amount to thirty mills on every dollar of the assessed value of your property. The school tax duplicate alone amounts to more than ninety thousand dollars annually. There is no demand for value boosting in the borough of Monessen. There is no reason why the people of the Second ward should be made to suffer penalties. The school board and the council have never raised any objection to the present values. The tax duplicate has been sufficient to meet the requirements for public expenditures and the millage has been fixed upon present values. To raise the valuation of Monessen inflicts a hardship upon the Monessen taxpayers which does not effect other sections of the county. Property owners believe that the taxes are amply high here. In fact they know they are. It is the parties that pay practically no taxes who are satisfied to have the other fellow pay more.

For example the assessor in the Second ward who is just now so busy raising valuations in order to inflict a burden upon the other fellow, pays just $2.50 a year taxes. The lowest tax a person could pay to be on the books at all would be $1.90. So this assessor has evidently been lavish in boosting the valuation of his own occupation in order to make his taxes reach this enormous sum, sixty cents more than he would really have to pay. This must be out of pure generosity and a love for public institutions. If this isn't the reason, he must have raised his own valuation on himself in order to get an excuse for raising the other fellow.

But the great trouble reverts back to the system. This assessor is on the job for the few paltry dollars it pays and not to do justice to the community. While under the law he is qualified, it is the law that qualifies him that is in error. Why should a man who has no financial interest in a community be elected to fix the valuations on great corporations, on homes and business houses who has not the least conception of their worth. A man whose business experience does not lead him up to the place should keep away from such an intricate job as assessor.

But this time people of the Second ward have an embarrassing situation with which to contend and it is fortunate that an appeal can be made to the county commissioners and that the commissioners have power to regulate all assessments. On any raise in values, where the values were equal with adjoining properties, there will be no end of complaint, for the town, as a town, is not in need of tax boosters.

—Among the deeds recorded in Washington was that on September 18 of John W. Manown, executor of the will of William J. Manown, late of Monessen, to the Union Steel Co., a lot fronting on Market street, Donora, and extending back 180 feet. The consideration was $10,000.

The Problem of Truth

"The American people must acquire the habit of looking into the evidence," said President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, in his martriculation sermon at Woolsey hall.

"We must stop buying the newspaper that tells what we wish was true and buy the one that tells what really is /We must refuse to repeat unproved gossip or scandal because we like it. This will soon grow into the habit of not liking it. We shall learn to hate the unconscious lie as well as the intentional one. There may sometimes be a question whether we should tell the truth to others who cannot see it or understand it; there should be no question at all that we should tell it to ourselves And when a man has learned to tell the truth to himself, the problem of telling it to others becomes comparatively easy The whole fabric of American society rests on the assumption that we are going to be honest in our dealings."

The Movie World

Moving pictures have by degrees weaned most of the stars of the stage from the "legitimate." They have taken unto themselves the cream of dramatic writers. In short, the moving picture industry has revolutionized the histrionic art until it wouldn't recognize itself in the mirror. Now it's going in for literature, "thumping, throbbing" literature; the kind which hits only the high places, as witness this excerpt from a moving picture magazine

"There's thumps and throbs in a new offering; five reels of punch, pep and plot, perils and pitfalls. The plodding pawns of penury cross and recross the primrose paths of plenty, plagued by pitiless perfidy, down, down, doggedly down to the defeating dusk of disaster's doom Then fate, the fickle fiddler's fancy, shifts, and from out the tortured tangle, love leaps and laughs and links the luckiorn lives with loops of gold"

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron in the Blood

If you are aneamic, you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face—colorless lips, ashen finger nails, poor circulation, and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

Mr. W. H. Hodges of Kansas City, Mo, says:—"I suffered from the effects of bad blood, was run-down, dizzy, had headaches and did not feel like working. I had tried Beef Iron and Wine without any help. After taking Vinol four days I noticed an improvement and its continued use built up my blood and my bad feelings disappeared like magic"

The bad effects of poor, devitalized blood cannot be overestimated, and it is the peptonate of iron and the true cod liver extracts contained in Vinol, together with beef peptone, that enriches the blood, improves the circulation and in this natural manner builds up health and strength. Try it on our guarantee.

SUFFRAGISTS WILL WORK HARDER

The suffragettes of Westmoreland county are going to make a whillwind finish to their campaign and noted speakers are being imported to this county to speak to the voters in favor of votes for women Last evening at the corner of Fourth and Donner avenue, Alexander Irvine, an Englishman, spoke to a good sized crowd on Equal Rights, and on Monday evening Mrs Gertrude Breslau Fuller will be here to deliver a lecture for the women

Mrs. Fuller is a famous lecturer and author. She is known wherever working men and working women have struggled to secure better conditions for themselves and their families. She has been a leader in their struggles and because of the talents that are hers, she has been a great leader All her life has been spent among those who toil. There is probably no woman living who knows more than she does of the struggle for existence that the working man and working woman must take. And there are few, either men or women, who have done more to better these conditions She has organized labor unions in the mines and mills of this state and in other states as well, and with pen and voice she has labored to make the world see the conditions of the workers and the things that must be done to make them better.

Her home is now in Pittsburgh. She is a suffragist because she believes that woman suffrage will be the best thing in the world for the men and women of this state. Anyone who has ever heard her speak knows the wonderful gripping power of her simple, direct eloquence. She goes straight to the heart of matters and makes an impression that is lasting.

Will Place Assets in Creditors Hands

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 22—Andrew Thompson, speaking for his father, J V. Thompson, the Uniontown banker, who failed last spring and whose financial difficulties have been aired before the Fayette County Bar association with a view of working out a plan to relieve the local financial situation brought about by Mr Thompson's failure, said last night that he was perfectly willing to place his assets in the hands of a creditors' commission to prevent litigation and addition of court costs to the expense of his creditors

The committee, composed of Attorneys A. F. Cooper, J. M Core, J. R. Cray, E. C. Higbee and H. L. Robinson, members of the Bar Association, who were appointed by D. W. McDonald, acting president of the association, yesterday noon with instruction to report at last night's meeting, after saying they believed it feasible to form a creditors' association to take over the assets of all men who were financially embarrassed, adjourned until next Monday evening to formulate and execute a plan accordingly The committee stated that they had interviewed counsel for many men financially embarrassed and all had agreed to the plan. Meanwhile, no suit will be filed against any bankers who are financially embarrassed

The Broken Coin

A Story of Mystery and Adventure

By EMERSON HOUGH

From the Scenario by Grace Cunard

(Copyright, 1915, By Wright A. Patterson)
Novelized From the Motion Picture Drama of the Same Name. Produced by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

SYNOPSIS.

Kitty Gray, newspaper woman, finds in a curio shop half of a broken coin, the mutilated inscription on which arouses her curiosity and leads her, at the order of her managing editor, to go to the principality of Gretzhoffen to piece out the story suggested by the inscription She is followed, and on arrival in Gretzhoffen her adventures while chasing the secret of the broken coin begin

SIXTEENTH INSTALLMENT

CHAPTER LVII.

A Tartar Taken.

"Enun, mademoiselle!" exclaimed Sachio, with the smile which Kitty Gray so well learned how to hate as well as dread. "At last! You are difficult, but as the maxim makers have it, perseverance at length wins its own reward."

"Well, then," she began, facing him, at bay, her hands clenched, her eyes flashing. "What is it that you wish?"

"Ah, well, many things, my dear," said Sachio, coolly. "But especially I desire all the knowledge you have of the affairs of this distracted kingdom here There is more than one secret here—yes? It has a broken coin and a broken parchment as well—yes? Together they may mean something, each for the other—yes? And we—I—all of us who are sworn to advance the interest of our kingdom—we need them both—all. Is it not true?"

He felt in his pocket for his silver cigarette case, and would have served himself. As he opened the case the girl made a sudden spring. His hand dropped the little case and caught her by the arm.

"Tut, tut, now!" he said "Do not be foolish. I may as well say it—you are going once more with us to our own town, the city of Grahoffen."

She could only stamp her foot, too much enraged to speak. But he went on.

"I am thinking you will not so soon make your escape the next time We have seen that Gretzhoffen here has deep dungeons—yes? Grahoffen has others quite as deep.

"Take her, men!" he said, "and quick. We must march."

"Ah, well," said Kitty Gray, "it should not prove so difficult. I am unarmed and a woman—I am helpless and innocent of any wrong against you"

"Mademoiselle," said Sachio, "it is idle to waste words Give over to me the piece of parchment which I know you have."

"I will not," said she calmly.

"Search her, men!" said Sachio "Take away from her what she has—be careful not to tear it more."

She was helpless and realized it Slowly she drew from her bosom the folded piece of parchment which she had concealed.

"Well, then," said she, "since you resort to such measures, here it is—I do not deny it. I found it. So did you. At least it is as much mine as yours—and more mine, because I did not lose what once I found But as to what it means, I know nothing. I never saw it before"

"Very well, then," said Sachio. "We will see if we can read its additional riddle at some later time. Now we must go."

In the confusion of the hour, therefore, Kitty Gray vanished and none noted the fashion of her disappearance, for all had matters enough to occupy them fully. Count Frederick alone of all those with whom she lately had spoken missed her, and began search for her. He got no word in any portion of the palace which had been frequented by her as guest or prisoner

Troubled deeply, Count Frederick once more turned to his own home Here he made urgent inquiries among his people in the vague hope that once more the young woman whom he sought had for reasons of her own found her way back to a place where she had more than once ventured in the past. But not one of his servants could furnish any knowledge whatsoever. They had not seen her, knew nothing of her presence.

Count Frederick called to him one of his most trusted men.

"Listen," said he. "You know the young American—the one of a certain prominence in the court—the one who has been here as my guest?"

"Yes, excellency," replied the man impassively

"Very well. She has disappeared. It is my wish that you discover her for me as soon as possible—at once."

Having taken these measures, possibly inefficient, yet the only ones offering to his mind, Count Frederick himself hurried once more to the royal palace.

It was, as so often is the case, a small thing which changed the course of greater resolutions. As he crossed the palace grounds so lately the scene of armed combat, he noted the trampled sward, the torn bed of flowers, the broken shrubs, the shorn trees—all the marks of rifle and artillery fire. Here there lay the debris of the attack and the retreat—arms, equipment. The keen eye of Frederick noted them all. It noted also the glitter of a bit of metal which seemed not a portion of discarded accouterments. He stopped and picked it up.

It was a silver cigarette case, evidently of value and evidently abandoned by some of the Grahoffen forces who so recently had left the place. Count Frederick examined it curiously, opened it.

Within the lid there was written a little inscription which gave him a start. "To Count Sachio, our well beloved, for deeds of valor. From his king"

"So," exclaimed Frederick, "so then—so then! He was here but now. And look—" Not far away he saw the prints of sharp heeled boots in the STOMACH UPSET?

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

MONESSEN PA. OLYMPIC HOME OF THE PIPE ORGAN

WEEK'S PROGRAM AT OLYMPIC THEATRE, MONDAY TO SATURDAY, OCT, 18 TO 24.

REGULAR PROGRAM

FRIDAY—Two of the finest comedies—"Eddie's Little Love Affair," a Nestor comedy with E. Lyons and one of L KO's comedies "A Mortgage on His Daughter" with Hank Mann and Peggy Pearce. Also one of Metro's features, the kind that crowds our doors all evening. B. A. Rolfe offers the two distinguished stars Jane Grey and Lionel Barrymore (the same star who is featured in "The Romance of Elaine") in "The Flaming Sword," in five acts and 210 scenes.

SATURDAY—"Queen of Jungle Land," in three reels of the kind that makes our audiences applaud wildly, featuring Edythe Sterling and Wellington Playter. Animated weekly. Pathe comedy with Heinie and Louie and the dearest and most friendly picture in our theatre. The 22nd episode of "The Diamond From the Sky" in two reels.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

FRIDAY—Metro Pictures corporation presents the two distinguished stars, Jane Grey and Lionel Barrymore in "The Flaming Sword." The story: Steve, a young college chap who has been unfortunate in his business career, after a life of dissipation, concludes that life is not worth the living and contemplates suicide. Among his associates is a girl named Maisie with whom Steve's name has been coupled by his intimates. Steve gives a banquet and announces that he is a bankrupt and that his friends are looking upon him for the last time. After the affair Steve goes to his apartments, puts his affairs in order and slowly walks to the water front where he hires a small boat, and the last seen of him is his boat, sail set, leaving the inlet for the open sea. Maisie, realizing that Steve has intentions of injuring himself, attempts to follow, but is too late. Steve drifts out to sea and after days of misery is washed up on the beach of a small island where he is found by a girl named Meera who lives there with her father and several servants. Then the real picture starts at the acquaintance with Meera's father.

SATURDAY—"The Queen of Jungle Land" with Edythe Sterling, Wellington Playter and Rex de Rosselli. The work of the animals at Universal City Zoo, under capable direction, is proving that an animal picture can be something more than a faked jungle scene, caged animals and a plot in which the animals play both unwilling and unnecessary parts. To see Edythe Sterling stroking the head of a full grown leopard or making a pet of the biggest lion in the zoo, is a thrilling sight—one rarely found in the usual so-called pictures. Miss Sterling's work with animals is a new experience to her, but her fearlessness as shown in this strong picture leads to the belief that she has found a new outlet for her capable activities. This picture should go big with any audience because there is a plot with a punch, a good climax and the animal feature is a necessary part of the whole.

A Novel Craft.

In the harbor of Port Weller, the Ontario entrance of the Welland ship canal, says the Engineering News, the surveying staff uses a flat bottomed boat that can lift itself clear of the water. It is a drill boat or sounding scow, of catamaran model, built particularly for the work of finding the elevation of the rock that underlies the bottom of the river. In order to have a steady platform on which to work during rough weather the surveyors had the scow made with a slot at each corner, through which a very heavy spud or post can be raised or lowered. The lifting mechanism consists of a wheel on top of each post, over which a wire cable passes from the side of the scow to an individual engine. When the scow heaves and sways in the water too much workmen start the four engines, and presently the scow is standing firm, with its four stout legs on the bottom of the river.
